Dedication

The class of 1960 deems it both a duty and a privilege to dedicate these pages to Brother Gerardian Joseph, F.S.C., who this year celebrates his Golden Jubilee as a Christian Brother. The last thirty-two of those golden years he has generously given to La Salle College, as a devoted teacher and hard-working administrator.

He is Head of the Physics Department, but relatively few of us know him as their teacher; for most of us, he emerges only occasionally from the shadows of the office designated by the terse legend: "Registrar." It is an office that ordinarily arouses our interest only twice a year—when the semester grades are due; or on such portentous occasions as when some of us might go there bearing that rarest and most comforting of all documents: a form stating that a mark has been changed and an index improved. There, too, alas, go those of us who wish to investigate a disquieting report from the Office of the Deans that we are a credit or two short for graduation. Invariably, there is no argument. Those on the verge of academic probation have come to respect the dispassionate accuracy of Brother Joseph's calculations, and—slide-rule or no slide-rule—there are few of us who have the hardihood to question a cumulative index. It is reported that his long years of painstaking toil with an infinity of such calculations have led him to regard with suspicion the indecent speed of the recently adopted IBM procedures.

Brother Joseph approaches his work with the no-nonsense air of a man undeterred by sentiment, and his imposing physique and stentorian voice, neither, apparently, the least impaired by time, lend undoubted authority to his direct, unadorned, laconic pronouncements. In the name of La Salle students, past and present, we cordially salute this devoted man for his long years of dedicated service. May God prosper him long among us and see to it that the Angelic Registrar put a "4.00" after his name in the Golden Book of Heaven!

Our "Blueprint for Living" was designed by the President and by the administration "and faculty." The product which resulted was we, the seniors of La Salle.

During the past four years under the tutelage of the Christian Brothers, we have advanced from immature high school graduates in search of higher education to responsible men in possession of the highest ideals.

The knowledge that we, the Class of 1960, have acquired here will form the very cornerstone of our lives. Our debt to the Christian Brothers and to La Salle College can not be repaid, but, God willing, we shall remember them both.

We have been exposed to the arts; we have come to terms with the sciences. Some of us have been trained in skills, some in crafts. In aggregate, they constitute knowledge, and knowledge with ideals begets wisdom. At La Salle, we have learned both, knowledge and ideals. We have been trained in faithful compliance with the Pauline dictum: See to it, therefore, brethren, that you walk with care; not as unwise, but as wise, making the most of your time, because the days are evil.

We should have—we hope we do have—wisdom for our days.

BROTHER DANIEL BERNIAN
F.S.C.
President

La Salle College continues to be graced with the good fortune of having Brother Daniel Bernian preside over its destinies. He is eminently qualified by rich spiritual and mental endowments to lead the College to even greater heights than those it has already attained. Brother Daniel Bernian is a particularly capable leader in carrying out the vast expansion program which La Salle, nearing its century-mark, has mapped out for itself.

The Class of 1960 wholeheartedly rejoices in the privilege of graduating under the understanding aegis of Brother Daniel Bernian, and, in parting, it wishes him every success in all his endeavors in behalf of the Greater La Salle.

Brother Didymus John, vice-president and dean of the College, has by dint of his genial personality, warm demeanor, and rare mental gifts impressed the Class of 1960 very deeply. We are convinced that he is the right man in the right place. This fact is only enhanced by the fact of his farsightedness in directing and supporting the efforts of all members of the faculty and the student body. His keenness of vision and understanding of problems that confront both teacher and student make him a safe guide.

In particular, the Class of 1960 will always remember, with gratitude, his willingness to listen to its personal problems and provide effective solutions. Students have been made to feel that Brother's one big objective is to be of service, as if no other duty of his administrative office was of great moment at the time.

The Class leaves La Salle confident that with Brother D. John at the helm the scholastic progress of the College can not fail.

Our Silver Jubilarians

Actually Brother Daniel Bernian's association with the Brothers of the Christian Schools goes back nearly thirty years to a time when he studied under them as a cadet in a military prep school, Saint John's College in Washington. During his fruitful career in religion and education, extending over the quarter century since the cadet became the Brother, Brother Daniel has manifested that spirit of faith and zeal which all have come to recognize as so typical of the ideal Christian Brother. Men of La Salle have recognized as well the quality of their President's many talents—the brilliant scholar, the kindly teacher, the progressive administrator, the affability and charm of a friend.

Brother Giles Raymond, unassuming and genial, also may trace his connection with the Christian Brothers back to student days. A member of the La Salle faculty seventeen of the twenty-five years since he received Holy Habit, Brother Raymond has been a man of strong loyalties—to his Community, to his College, to his students. In all his modesty, he has given and never demanded. His confreres in the College know him as a man of pious conviction who has made a virtue of forthrightness.

Accounting Association—Day

The Accounting Association seeks to foster better relations among La Salle's students of accountancy, and endeavors to promote among them a greater interest in their intended profession. A must for upper-class Accounting majors, its members become acquainted with the opportunities awaiting them as accountants, particularly in the Philadelphia area, through meetings with established members of the profession. The Accounting Association has invariably been one of the largest campus organizations membership-wise.

Cyril Simon, President of the Accounting Association, presents a token of appreciation to guest speaker, Mr. Ralph Lee, Jr., as Faculty Advisor, Joseph Markmann, looks on approvingly.

With the advent of new accounting techniques such as Electronic Data Processing, there are many new demands for specially qualified accountants in industry and in government service. The potential for economic expansion on a national basis promises even greater demands for the future.

The Accounting Association in conjunction with the curricular program of the College is helping to prepare well oriented men to meet the challenge.

The Accounting Association shared the Student Congress Award for the most active Evening organization with the Marketing Association. Stanley Rosen, Ronald Armitage, Cyril Simon, Robert McDowell and Charles Linder admire the Award plaque held by Faculty Advisor, Joseph Markmann.

Evening Division

A happy combination of an active and efficient leader, a deeply interested group of members and a personable Faculty Advisor has contributed to the continued success of the Accounting Association.

By taking full advantage of the limited time which is available to the Evening Division students, this organization has provided many opportunities for the members to discuss academic and practical problems in Accounting with top men in the profession. As an example of the prominence of the speakers who have addressed this group, Mr. Ralph Lee, Jr., a partner of the Arthur Anderson Company, gave a superb talk at the Fall Term Dinner Speaker Meeting.

Society for the Advancement of Management

The chief aims of the Society for the Advancement of Management are to foster the development of future managerial talent and to enhance the application of scientific management principles in industry through its close association with the Philadelphia Chapter of the National Professional Society of Management Men. Activities center around inspection tours of plants in the Philadelphia Area and participation in the competition for SAM's student chapter Performance Award.

SAM—John R. Fleckenstein, president; Thomas J. Henry, vice-president; Joseph M. Maurer, treasurer; Thomas Gillespie, Joseph J. Hallman, Thomas E. Hartberger, William J. Jekot, Joseph V. Kelly, Thomas Kirsch, Edward McKeon, Davis S. Myers, Alfred E. Oziemkiewicz.

"They learn by doing" is the motto of a very active student organization. The Society for Advancement of Management offers a varied program which provides its members with opportunities to widen their knowledge of the principles of good management. By actively pursuing these opportunities in open competition with more than 150 University Chapters throughout the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, the La Salle College Evening Division Chapter has again distinguished itself by gaining national recognition.

Through the adept management of its capable officers, the Evening Division Chapter has become the perennial champion among the Delaware Valley Colleges and Universities. Indeed, learning by doing has become a routine assignment by which these S.A.M. members have dedicated themselves to the promotion and advancement of the art and the science of management.

Marketing Association

La Salle's Marketing Association fulfills its two-fold raison d'être by promoting interest in the principles of marketing and in methods by which the standard of living of America and the world may be bettered through sales, advertising, and market research. These aims are reached through group research, study, discussion, and by way of publications. The Association seeks to create as well a high ethical conception of social responsibility on the part of the student.

The members of the Marketing Association are momentarily distracted from the business of the evening at their Annual Speaker Dinner at the Franklinville Quartette Club.

Ronald Armitage, Anthony Delgado and Joseph Donnelly are interested in the outcome of the discussion between John McDonald, Jr., and George White, President of the Marketing Association.

Evening Division

The Marketing Association is one of the oldest and most active student organizations of the Evening Division. It was formed especially for the men who are majoring in Marketing with the purpose of furthering their understanding of this field of study.

The members energetically pursue this objective by bringing to their monthly meetings distinguished leaders in the field who discuss with them the practical applications of the various marketing functions.

To foster a closer fellowship among its members, the Association sponsors a number of successful social affairs among which are a Dinner Speaker Meeting, a Spring Term Dinner Dance, and a Stag Night.

The achievements of the Evening Division Marketing Association have recently been enhanced when the group received a charter from the American Marketing Association for an independent College Chapter.

If the past performance of the Marketing Association is a true indication of its future development, the growth and usefulness of this dynamic organization should continue.

Industrial Relations Commission

The Industrial Relations Commission brings captains of both management and labor into contact with La Salle's business colony. Under the able leadership of a very busy William Welch, the IRC presented its "Man of the Year Award" to the Hon. James P. Mitchell, U.S.

Secretary of Labor, and heard as well during the year from Mr. John J. Curran of the Upholsterers' International and from Mr. Mitchell's assistant secretary, the Hon. John J. Gilhooley. Plans were initiated for a campus Industrial Relations Library.

Members and their families stand for the Holy Gospel during the IRC's annual Father-Son Mass and Communion Breakfast.

The Industrial Relations' float cannonballs past the Tap-Off Rally reviewing stand.

I.R.S. officers seemed mighty pleased with that report—the treasurer's, no doubt. William Haines, Treasurer; Joseph Keough, Jr., Secretary; John Held, Vice-president; and Francis Colahan, President.

Another amicable agreement reached by I.R.S. members: Frank Hanning, Charles Agnew, Joseph Keough, William Wolf, Fred Eberle and Robert Schreiber.

Industrial Relations Society

One of the basic problems in the world today involves the amicable settlement of the mutual wants and needs of man with fellow man. This problem is especially highlighted in the field of Management-Labor Relations.

The Industrial Relations Society, established in 1953, was formed by the students, who were interested in promoting greater understanding between employer and employee, to afford better opportunities to exchange viewpoints on this most controversial subject.

By inviting representatives of Management and of Labor, as well as professional mediators, to their meetings, the members of the Society are achieving the primary objective of the organization—a broader knowledge of all aspects of Industrial Relations.

Fred Eberle, Philip Fisher, Charles Agnew, Frank Hanning, John Held and William Haines. Standing: Joseph Keough, William Wolf and Frank Colahan.

Golden Circle Club

Slightly less than two years ago, the Golden Circle Club, an organization composed of Evening Division students and their wives, began a concerted effort to change the cliché, "A woman's place is in the home."

Under the guidance of Father Mark Heath, the College Chaplain, the Golden Circle has developed a program which provides young married couples with practical education and pleasant social activity. Their Forum-Socials have been addressed by many eminent lecturers from the clergy and the laity.

One of the unusual features of this unique organization is that the wives of the students may also hold office. This and other aspects of the operation of the Golden Circle give substance to the claim for taking the woman out of the home and making her a part of her husband's life at La Salle.

The officers of the Golden Circle Club: Lidie Hamilton, Secretary; Marie Aiken, Treasurer; Fred Aiken, Vice-president; and Leroy Hamilton, President.

Dr. Austin J. App seems to have captivated his lovely and handsome (as the case may be) listeners.

Institute of Radio Engineers

The youngest student organization of the Evening Division is the La Salle College Student Branch of the Institute of Radio Engineers. I.R.E. is a national professional group whose aims include the advancement of the theory and practice of radio, allied engineering, and related arts and sciences.

Students registered in the Electronic Physics curriculum are eligible for membership in the Student Branch.

Brother Paul's anecdotes seem to amuse the members of I.R.E.

The Dr. Joseph J. Sprissler Award was inaugurated in 1952 by the Student Congress to honor and perpetuate the name of the Founder and first Director of the Evening Division.

Bernard Burns, President of the Student Congress, was unanimously selected to be this year's recipient. This award, the most eagerly sought and highly prized of all the awards available to the Evening Division seniors, was presented at the Founder's Day Convocation.

The following members of the Class of 1960 were awarded certificates of recognition: William Boyle, Jr., Manus Conway, Frederick Ebner, Jr., Robert Gear, William Long, Vincent Romano, Cyril Simon and George White.

Gene Marrella
Editor-in-Chief

Explorer

EXPLORER big-wigs, Charles Zerr, Gene Marrella, and Charles Reilly huddle to discuss a directive from the annual's New York publisher.

Bob Rinehart
Copy Editor

A treasured possession published to last a part of a lifetime's memories, the EXPLORER remains a pictorial history and momento of a college career at La Salle. The record of college life and activities, La Salle's annual EXPLORER in its pages runs the gamut of campus doings, athletic, extra-curricular, social, and various and sundry collegiate miscellany. But primarily the EXPLORER justifies its existence by assuming the role of chronicle of the Class of 1960. It is the story of the spiritual and intellectual maturing of over five hundred La Sallians; it is the story of the physical growth of an ever-greater La Salle, building prestige in the metropolitan area and in the Nation.

Explorer Staff Evening Division

The Evening Division Editor and his staff have endeavored to portray as completely as possible the record of the Class of 1960 and the highlights of all of the Evening activities. Realizing that the continuous expansion of the Evening College has increased the complexity of campus activities to a point where they resemble more and more the fuller participation of the day students in collegiate life, our efforts may not have reached the fullness of our expectations. Nevertheless, we are hopeful that our principal objective has been achieved.

Special credit for the success of our undertaking must be given to Anthony Derago and William Timmins for writing most of the text material; to Edward Dehner for his excellent photography; and to Ronald Armitage, John Lavin and Charles Mahon for their supporting assistance.

Ronald Armitage finds something amusing about a page layout as Anthony Derago, Associate Evening Editor, and Manus Conway, Evening Editor, look on.

Bernard Burns, President of the Student Congress, presents a special award to Manus Conway, the 1959 Evening Editor of the Collegian. Brother Daniel Bernian, the College President, and Mr. Robert Rowland, Faculty Advisor, look on.

Collegian Evening Division Staff

Enjoying, as it does, an important position among the extra-curricular activities of the Evening Division, the Collegian is the principal medium of communication to the students.

It serves many useful functions. It provides the Administration with the means for presenting academic information and other pertinent instruction to the students: it affords those students who are interested in journalistic endeavors the opportunity to express their ideas: and it fosters the development of a more unified student body through the publication of "chit-chat" columns, editorials, news stories, and feature articles.

Each year, the Collegian Key is presented to the graduating members of the staff in recognition of their faithful service. The recipients for 1959-60 were Manus W. Conway, Frank Kelly, and Joseph Walton.

Frank Kelly and Ronald Armitage, the 1960 Evening Editor, decide on a piece of art work, while Manus Conway, the 1959 Editor, enjoys the aroma of Ron's pipe.

Collegian

The editorial staff has been traditionally named at the COLLEGIAN's annual banquet, the occasion when outgoing seniors are honored and the paper's coveted annual award for outstanding service to journalism is presented to a personage active in one of the many facets of news communication. Walter Cronkite, famed CBS correspondent and narrator of the award-winning "The Twentieth Century," was this year's recipient of the prize.

The La Salle COLLEGIAN is the weekly student-operated newspaper of La Salle College. The paper acts as an outlet for students with a journalistic inclination, and serves to keep students abreast of campus events, whether they be of a cultural, sport, or news nature. Editorial views and opinions on various issues of the day—world, national, campus—are given great prominence.

This year's COLLEGIAN staff is seen in one of its rare free moments. Everyone seems quite serious, but don't be fooled. They're really a lot of happy-go-lucky guys, and after all are only posing.

Bob Lyons grins as Bill Hansell signs a release turning over to the former the reigns of COLLEGIAN editorial command.

Brother Daniel Bernian, College president, presents the "COLLEGIAN Award for Outstanding Service to Journalism" to CBS commentator Walter Cronkite at the staff's annual banquet. Brother Fidelian of Mary, F.S.C., moderator of the weekly journal, watches at right.

La Salle's diminutive Thurber, Ray Pentzell (standing and holding paper), waxes dubious at a statement directed to him by Jim Murray, COLLEGIAN associate editor. Jim appears to be giving Ray an elbow in the schnoz. Joe McAuliffe, lectures editor, views the proceedings with glee as copy chief Al Whalen (in rakishly checkered jacket), seemingly disinterested in his confreres' conversation, stares at the cameraman. And where's the editor, Bob Lyons?

La Salle publicist Bob Shaefer (far left) fills in Walter Cronkite, COLLEGIAN Award recipient, on the ins-'n-outs of the public relations game. Joe McFadden and Jack Muhlolland (in foreground) consider their denuded cocktail cups while pondering a very abstruse problem: "Where's the dinner?"

Student Council

Student Council serves as the official elected on-campus representative of the student body. Through its good offices, Council makes known the views of the student body, and cares for the student's best interests in his relations with the administration and faculty fostering co-operation and understanding between the two elements of the College community.

Council organizes and conducts all traditional ceremonies, meetings, and other extra-curricular functions which are not under direct faculty supervision and are not sponsored by particular student groups. It assists in co-ordinating all class associations, clubs, fraternities, and other student organizations.

Snagged on a parliamentary impose, Council appears stymied. But never fear—delegate Tony Murdocca (center right) will soon come to the rescue with Robert's Rules.

Bob McHugh grudgingly admits that Gene Marrella's credit standing is intact. He is assisted by fellow Student Loan officials Jim Higgins and Ed Butler, affixing his signature to a Marrella-bound check. Unseen beneath table is banker McHugh's kilt. Marrella grins realizing that again he has outwitted Student Loan's credit investigators.

Frank Varga, John Lavin, Fred Aiken, William Boyle and Ronald Armitage.

Fred Aiken, Chairman of the Winter Dance Committee, presents Bernard Burns, the Student Congress President, with the traditional class ring.

Student Congress

The Student Congress of the Evening Division is composed of members elected by the students to govern their activities and to act as their official representative with the administration and the faculty of the College.

Through its representative system, the Congress encourages all students, directly or indirectly, to participate in self government and to take an active role in the extra-curricular organizations which have been established under its ejgis.

It sponsors the major religious and social activities which are conducted as a complement to the academic functions of the College in the attainment of the broad aims of its educational policy.

Under the energetic direction of its President, Bernard Burns, the 1959-1960 Student Congress has surpassed all previous Congresses in its accomplishments. This outstanding performance has strengthened the position of all future Congresses.

The Molvern Retreat was attended by a record breaking number of Evening Division students led by Associate Captains Charles Smith, Paul Kelly and Manus Conway.

representative; David Kibler, treasurer; Leo Ganster, athletic chairman; Thomas Brennan, freshman representative.

Residence Council

The Residence Council strives to meet the particular needs of over three hundred and fifty residence students in their "home away from home" at La Salle. From the green blotter be-decked oaken conference table in their sanctum sanctorum on Saint Denis Hall's second floor—an across-palisade shift from last year's center of legislation which has reverted to a laundry depot, council members act as the official representatives of their electorate in myriad functions—religious, social, or athletic. They tend as well to the "grips 'n grievances" of residents, if any. The Residence Council is represented by four delegates in the benches of Student Council assuring residents an ample voice in the conduct of campus government.

Harvest Dance

The 27th Annual Harvest Dance was held on the crisp Autumn evening of Saturday, October 31st. This dance, which traditionally opens the La Salle social season, was the first school social function to be held in the spanking new, ultra-modern College Union Building. Over 500 couples jammed the main ballroom of the Union to dance to the melodious music of Al Raymond's Orchestra. Without doubt one of the most successful Harvest Dances on record, an over $900 profit was netted. Proceeds went to the Christian Brothers' Novitiate, Amdendale, Maryland. Hats were off to Walt Rider and Chuck Reilly, Council's dance chairmen.

Explorers and their ladies dance to the well-tempered tones of Al Raymond and group.

Joy is general as Harvest Dance couples glide across the floor of the College Union Ballroom to one of the more "dreamy" numbers in Al Raymond's wide repertoire.

Mr. Joseph Sprissler opines to Brother Gavin Paul, F.S.C., that the Harvest Dance seems undoubtedly a great success. Brother Paul's reply, "Is that so?" Mrs. Sprissler and Brother Daniel Bernian look on.

Rich Mullin, Student Council prexy, presents Brother Daniel Bernian, F.S.C., with a check representing the profit reaped from the successful Harvest Dance venture. Walt Rider, one of Council's dance chairmen, and Mr. Sprissler watch the exchange with interest.

Explorers and their ladies make full use of the sparkling new Union Ballroom for an enchanting winter evening of music and dancing.

Blue and Gold Ball

February 13th was spotlighted by La Salle's gala annual Blue and Gold Ball, traditionally a formal affair open to all members of the student body. This year's dance, held for the first time on campus in the elegant Union Ballroom, offered myriad attractions for La Salle guys and their gals. Nearly 300 couples braved a driving snow storm to attend, and enjoyed for their effort the rhythmic strains of three bands playing continuously amidst picturesque decorations throughout the Union which made La Salle glow as if it were a belated Christmas tree. Music was the product of Johnny Austin and his band, a top-flight Philadelphia dance group; Frank Diehl and the Brothers, and the Christmas City Six, a talented Dixieland aggregation from Lehigh University. Though the Blue and Gold was not the financial success desired, its social success can not be doubted, this much through the efforts of Council President Rich Mullin.

Almost like too beat to bop, man, the Christmas City Six give out with the Dixie to Blue 'n Gold couples in a well-known campus night spot.

Though a chill blizzard might fall outside, inside all was cozy and dreamy with a Blue 'n Gold tint.

Sigma Beta Kappa

Sigma Beta Kappa, with over sixty members one of the most active organizations on campus, has enjoyed one of its most fruitful years within the "ivy walls" of La Salle. SBK, a national Catholic social fraternity, conducts an active Catholic Action program in addition to its social functions. The fraternity carries out its Catholic Action program at Philadelphia's St. John's Orphanage. In the social sphere, Sandy Run Country Club was the site of SBK's Thanksgiving Dance, one of the frat's most successful affairs in years; the same can also be said of the Mardi Gras Dance, held at Greenbriar Country Club. Proceeds from both went to St. John's.

The SBK Father and Son Night Dinner was honored by the presence of Governor David Lawrence, father of fraternity vice-president Jerry Lawrence.

SBK for the third year in succession won first prize for the best float in Tap-Off Rally competition.

Jack Whitecar, WCAU commentator, receives SBK's Sportsmanship Award from the hands of Mr. Rowland, fraternity moderator, at SBK's annual Father-Son Dinner. Attending the affair were the Hon. David Lawrence, governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and Brother Daniel Bernin, president of the College.

Miss Flossie Cleary is perched atop SBK's prize winning float at La Salle's Tap-Off Rally of long tradition. The fraternity's float finished first in the competition for the third straight year.

"This is Santa Claus?" Chris Nolan, on the verge of disillusionment, seems doubtful about the authenticity of the rotund fellow in the bright red suit. But the boys at St. John's Orphanage aren't the least bit concerned; they know he's the real McCoy! The occasion was SBK's annual Christmas Party at the Orphanage.

Alpha Phi Omega

Lambda Pi is La Salle's super-active chapter of the national service fraternity Alpha Phi Omega. Pledged to serve the nation and its youth, their fraternal organization, and the student community, brothers of APO put their hand to a thousand and one tasks both on and off campus. Chapter vice-president Tom Nickle served as chairman of APO's Eastern Sectional Conference. APO again attracted attention with its own annual "Ugly Man" contests. In addition to its many social functions, APO was active in fund raising and serving the College in a multitude of capacities at numerous campus events. Co-operating in its own small way with World Refugee Year, an APO membership—deeply moved by a letter from missionary Sister Maria Crucia—adopted, in the name of the College, eight year old Lau Kwok Keung and his nearly two hundred classmates at the Maryknoll's Our Lady's Nursery in far away Hong Kong. Setting themselves to this Christian task, APO with general student co-operation provides for the basic needs of these refugee children.

Frat brothers contribute a few shekles of their own toward the cause of their favorites in APO's "Ugly Man" race.

These bright-eyed Chinese youngsters, the children of refugees who fled in the face of the Red Terror, are cared for by the nuns of Our Lady's Nursery, secure in Great Britain's sentinel in the Orient, Hong Kong.

German Club

A brotherly bünde, members of the German Club make an effort on the campus level to improve German-American relations, and to create an understanding of Germany's place in the world today. Though not necessarily geared to German majors, the Club is devoted to the perpetuation and increase of interest in the German language and culture at the College. Pursuant to the former objective, the Club sponsored a lecture by a victim of the brutal nazi terror and now staunch supporter of the Christian Democratic movement. Directed by its capable burgemeister Ed Gryczynski, able successor to La Salle's First German—John Veen, Club members continued their tradition of repairing now and again to Kanstatter's for sauerkraut and such.

Splendidly uniformed troopers of "Gryczynski's Own" Wehrmacht are Joseph J. Bellanca, Louis H. Betz, Bruce J. Hall, John A. Lisiewski, Patrick McMahon, James J. Sloan, Andrew Senkowsky, William H. Watts, Reginald Paul Wray, and Chester A. Zach.

Neri, Stephen F. Pagliaro, Francis J. Salerno, Anthony Taddeo, Paul Toselli, Richard J. Travaline.

Il Circolo Italiano provides a wide range of activities for students interested in the Italian language and culture. It provides, as well, a center of mutual interests for La Sallians of Italian descent. The Italian Club, as it is better know, offers members a stimulating social and cultural program. La Salle's Italian colony gathers, for instance, every Thursday evening before the television screen to watch "The Untouchables."

Weber Society

The Herbert S. Weber Society is the English club of La Salle College. This club's main function is to publish TRICON, La Salle's student literary magazine. The magazine, a yearly affair, has contributed three very successful issues to the cultural life of the Olney campus. And this year's edition was no exception; in fact, all copies were sold the first day.

Tricon

Masque

One of La Salle's proudest boasts, the Masque is a professional-like campus theatre group. Students find in it an outlet for theatrical expression both on- and back-stage. In addition to two full-scale productions a year, the Masque conducts its own intra-company drama workshop, and, in search of talent, sponsors a one-act play contest for local high schools.

Moderator of the Masque since 1954, the directoral skill of Mr. Dan Rodden has guided the group through an unbroken chain of hit productions. The acclaimed genius of Mr. Sidney MacLeod, technical director of the theatre, was added for the first time to the Masque this year.

La Salle theatre moved cross-quadrangle this season. College Hall's "shelf" was left behind in favor of the sparkling new theatre of the College Union. To this showplace, the Masque brought one of Broadway's all-time show pieces, "Guys and Dolls," the smash hit based on a Damon Runyon short story, with score by Frank Loesser, and Swerling-Burrow's book. For this maiden performance under new lights, the Masque called back the cream of its alumni to La Salle grease-paint. Produced in mid-February, "Guys and Dolls" drew eight straight full houses.

Runyonesque Sky Masterson (Tom Corrigan) and the Major Barbara-ish Sister Sarah Brown (Eleanor McDonough) are a charming but unlikely couple 'til fate and Arvide's prodding take a hand.

Glee Club

Like the wandering minstrels of old, the blue blazer bedecked Explorer Glee Club brings to the hearts of many during the process of its concert season. Widely acclaimed on the collegiate choral concert circuit and at La Salle's own annual Spring Concert, the gleemen, nearly a hundred voices strong, bear vocal testimony to the worth of the skilled baton of their director, the Reverend Father William Sailer, and to the merit of the perfection he demands.

Pre-meds John Brady and John McDermott use bio lab as a cover for their activities as resurrectionists.

Fabrician Society

Long under the sage tutelage of Dr. Roland Holroyd, the Fabrician Society's selective membership is limited to pre-med students in good standing. Members are made aware of the ultra-rugged requirements of medical schools and are treated to an intimate view of their prospective profession. Scientists prominent in the medical world mingle with La Salle physicians-to-be at Society-sponsored seminars. Tours of Philadelphia Area medical facilities are included in the program of activities.

Fabrician officers the Messers McDermott, Yannessa, Schieken, and Bieniek are seated in front of underclass members Louis H. Betz, Jeffrey Damsker, F. William DeMarco, Louis F. Donaghue, Bruce J. Gavel Society

The Gavel Society is in actuality La Salle's debating team. Open to members of the student body who wish to spill out their forensic vitriol in a productive manner, the Gavel Society offers an opportunity for intercollegiate competition in speech, argumentation, and parliamentary practice. Though not as entirely successful as in past debating seasons within memory, La Salle's squad of latent Burkes argued with no little distinction in several tournaments against tough Eastern collegiate opposition on the appointed national debate topic for 1959-60, "The Legislature Should Have the Power to Check the Supreme Court."

An affiliate of the American Chemical Society, the Chymian Society is designed to stimulate an intellectual spirit arising from the professional association of chemistry majors on campus. The Society exposes its scientifically-bent members to an atmosphere where they may prepare and then present material of a technical nature to an appreciative audience. Discussions led by students, lectures presented by guests prominent in science, technical movies, and field trips to industrial laboratories are all an integral part of the Chymian Society's highly diversified program.

International Relations Club

By far the most notable of the International Relations Club activities were the Republican and Democratic rallies held on campus in the midst of a heated Philadelphia mayoralty campaign. Harold E. Stassen, GOP candidate for mayor, and his cohorts addressed students and faculty in the Union Theatre; they faced a barrage of questions from the floor as did Richardson Dilworth, Democratic incumbent, representing his party at a similar IRC rally. Co-ordinated with the rallies, the IRC sponsored mock election the result of which closely mirrored the November returns. A Washington field-trip and active participation in various political events and inter-collegiate conferences engaged the activity of members.

Alpha Epsilon Delta

COE (Committee of Explorers) is a new organization on the La Salle campus, both active and energetic, whose primary mission is to instill spirit into a sometimes apathetic student body. The committee's success in a few short months has been marked. COE, led by Messrs. Lynch and Gillette, staged one of the most triumphant rallies seen at La Salle since the hey-days of Tom Gola & Co. Result of rally: a victory over arch-rival St. Joe's—granted with assistance from the team.

Caisson Club

Dedicated to the maintenance of the Spartan Arts on a continued high level at La Salle, the Caisson Club selects its membership from among the elite of the cadet artillery battle group's Prussian-proud officer corps. Soldier-members join in a spirit of martial comradery to encourage and foster the essential qualities of efficient military leadership. Yet, much of the Caisson Club's activity is in the social vein. Not daunted as was Napoleon's Grand Armee by Winter's snowy blast, the military fraternity sponsored a highly successful Military Ball in the midst of an aggressive polar onslaught. The Caisson Club displayed much of the Free World's arsenal at their Open House exhibit.

NFCCS

An all important cog in the La Salle collegiate co-curricula wheel, the National Federation of Catholic College Students on a national scale effects the student bodies of more than two hundred Catholic colleges in America. It has expanded to become a part of a greater international forum of Catholic student organizations throughout the globe. NFCCS co-ordinates co-curricula activities on the nation's Catholic campuses and among the world's Catholic students. In this manner, the Federation creates a bond binding together the Catholic college community and brings to a realization the role of the student as a member of the lay apostolate through its workshops in human relations, family life, Mariology, and Fraternity of Christian Doctrine. NFCCS's guiding force at La Salle is its advisor, Rev. Bro. D. Augustine, F.S.C.

Student Brothers' Activities

The four years spent by a young Brother at Anselm Hall, the Christian Brothers' house of studies located in Elkins Park, may best be approximated by the term "formation." Included in his daily roster are periods of religious exercises, study, manual work and recreation. This activity is directed to provide him with the needed tools to form Christ in himself, in order that as an effective Religious educator he may impart Christ to others.

Senior Class

The La Salle College Evening Division Class of 1960, under the leadership of its President, William L. Boyle, Jr., assured its rightful position in the forefront of campus activity.

Imbued with unprecedented enthusiasm, the Class representatives set a near perfect record for attendance at each of their many meetings, and the Committee Chairmen labored diligently to insure the success of each of the Class's activities.

The Senior Class is sincerely appreciative of the efforts of representatives Paul Turnbull and Robert Weiss, entrepreneurs of the Senior Stag Night; Frederick Ebner and Joseph Walton, organizers of the wonderful Christmas Party; Anthony Derago and William Timmins, arrangers of the Dinner Dance; and William R. Long, the indefatigable Finance Chairman for the entire social program.

The Senior Octet (minus one) made its debut at the Senior Stag. The melodious group was comprised of William Cahill, Clarence Chandler, William Long, Joseph Walton, William Schwind, John Hunt and George White.

Union Committees

The Union Committees are the by-product and offspring of the College Union Building. These communities are charged with the handling of all activities occurring in the Union. During their first year of operation, the Union Committees sponsored and operated dances and dance instruction classes, film features, live and recorded concerts, art shows, to mention but a small portion of their work. John Veen's Volunteers catered as well to numerous Administration and campus organization functions in the Union.

Soccer

When La Salle's soccer team defeated Delaware, 2-1, last November to finish the season with a 5-5-1 record, it insured itself of the best record in the school's history. The Explorers, under the able guidance of coach Joe Smith, rolled to victories over Lafayette, Muhlenberg, arch-rival St. Joseph's, and Glassboro, besides Delaware. The highlight of the season, however, was La Salle's stunning 2-2 come-from-behind deadlock with perennial power Elizabethtown. And oddly enough, all five of the Explorer losses in 1959 were by shutouts. Much credit for La Salle's fine year must go to the excellent leadership of the senior co-captains, Fred Mischler and Sig Siemienski. Both will be missed next season as will be Gene Marrella, the only other senior, who climaxed his final college game against Delaware with a booming 40 foot field goal to insure the victory. Aldo Delpino, leading scorer on the team in 1958, had to share the same honors with two other teammates last season. Tom Scanlon, an All Middle Atlantic Conference choice, and George Bohnenberger matched Delpino's seasonal total of four goals. Marrella and Bob Watson each tallied three goals, while Tom Lynch, Cliff Gillespie and Jim Pastore had one apiece.

La Salle's fine 5-5-1 record can be directly attributed to the leadership of the following three men: co-captains Fred Mischler and Sig Siemienski, and coach Joe Smith.

THE 1959-60 SOCCER TEAM . . .

BEST RECORD IN LA SALLE'S HISTORY.

Coach Frank Wetzler seems to be pointing directly at the Middle Atlantic Conference Championship as he instructs seniors Pete Walheim, Tom Lynaugh and Jim Sumner before La Salle's home opener against Rutgers in May.

Won six, lost none!

The first undefeated cross country team in La Salle's history posted this enviable record this fall under the excellent tutelage of track and cross country mentor Frank Wetzler. The pace-setter for this record breaking outfit was Peter Walheim, one of the most talented men to ever enter Brother Christopher's Admission office. Walheim, an eight-letter winner, captain of two major sports, and outstanding student, completed an undefeated dual meet season and set La Salle school and course records in two of the home meets.

After the harriers' tremendous dual meet season they faltered in the championship races and placed 17th in the IC4A meet at New York and had to settle for a runnerup spot—behind St. Joseph's—in the MAC championship. Sharing the tri-captainship with Walheim were seniors, Tom Lynaugh and Jim Sumner. Sumner was an almost consistent second to Walheim in dual meets. Lynaugh was a steady performer all year.

Coach Wetzler had to reach deep into his bag of tricks to come up with second-line help from his underclassmen. Pat Walsh was foremost in this class, pushing Walheim to record breaking marks by his fine early running. Charley Del Rossi and Dick Flint, a pair of juniors, also helped considerably.

John Caras, a transfer student from little Geneva College, was the most pleasant surprise of the fall. Little John placed well in the dual meets and his displacement of a St. John's runner gave the Explorer runners a 29-28 squeaker over the Redmen at the New Yorkers' home course. The year, then, was a pleasant one, in toto, with the emphasis on WON!

Track and Cross Country

Closely bunched at the start of the Westchester meet, Pete Walheim (Far left, Glasses), broke from the pack to win easily.

EXPLORER CROSS COUNTRY TRI-CAPTAINS, Jim Sumner, Tom Lynaugh and Pete Walheim work out before a meet.

17 letter winners returned to carry La Salle's spring track fortunes. Coach Wetzler's team relied on depth and power in the distance events and strength in the weight events to offset deficiencies in the sprints and jumping events. Wetzler's men looked—as usual—to the slender blonde frame of Pete Walheim for the "clean-up punch" in their lineup. Walheim, beside running on the distance relay teams, carried the Blue and Gold's hopes in the mile and two-mile races. Jim Sumner and John Caras lended valuable support in the distances while senior Tom Lynaugh continued his fine work in the half-mile. Lynaugh opened the season with his best race in two years while winning the half against Penn. Juniors Dick Flint and Charley Del Rossi carried the brunt of La Salle's efforts in the middle distances, Dick in the half and mile, and Charley in the quarter and half. In the sprints and hurdles, Coach Wetzler depended on MAC champion

Joe Tyler, Aldo Delpino, Tony Wengraitis, Terry McGovern and Al Rosteing. Newcomers who helped out were: Joe Hepp, Dick Johnson, Vince Leonetti, Bob Ward, John Gain and Ed Divinney. The weights were capably handled by the Taylor brothers, Bill and Bob. Billy, whose speciality is the shot put ("Finest in the land, pound for pound," according to his coach) also helps out in the discus while his older brother Bob specializes in the discus and shares duty in the shot and javelin. Jack Brabazon was a consistent point getter in the shot and discus, and Dick Bilski tossed the javelin with continued success. Explorer hopes in the jumping events were borne by Andy Taylor, John Brogan and letter-winner Bob Taylor. Brogan and Andy Taylor competed in the high jump, while Bob shared duties in the broad jump, high jump and also participated in the hop, step and jump, when that event was offered.

Jim Sumner and Pete Walheim lead some of their teammates around La Salle's hilly course on a practice run immediately prior to the 1959 IC4A Cross Country Championships in New York.

Crew

Although its 1959 record was not as impressive as many other years, La Salle's crew went into the past campaign with high hopes for a winning year and a possible Dad Vail championship which is symbolic of small college racing supremacy. The reason for this optimism was simple for coach Thomas Curran. Ten of his eleven top men saw frequent action and gained valuable experience last season. The other rower, sophomore Matt Ledwith, displayed much ability in high school and on the freshman team. Coach Curran named the following starting boat when La Salle opened its season against Fordham immediately prior to the Explorers' trip to Florida where they raced Rollins, Tampa and Florida Southern: Bow—Tony McCloskey; 2—Bill Keenan; 3—Bill Gallagher; 4—Tom Henry; 5—Ledwith; 6—Don Kerper; 7—Harry Todd; Stroke—captain Bob Suter, and Cox—Craig "Ace" O'Brien.

Basketball

With six of last season's top seven men returning to give needed experience, and some promising sophomores accounting for a stronger bench, Dudey Moore's basketballers got off to one of their best starts in the school's history, winning their first nine games. It wasn't until January 13 that the Explorers suffered their first loss, dropping a double-overtime contest to Syracuse.

Although the Explorers slumped considerably at the end (dropping six of their last 13 games), and failed to make a post-season tournament for the fifth straight year, the season was a rousing success as far as the traditional rivalry with St. Joseph's goes. Senior Bob Alden scored 25 points and sophomore Bob McAteer added 17 as the Explorers walloped the Hawks for their lone Big Five victory. In other Big Five games, the Blue and Gold did not fare so well.

Ralph Bantivoglio, consistent Explorer sparkplug, failed on this attempt for two in La Salle's 76-70 loss to Western Kentucky's tall and talented quintet.

THE 1959-60 EXPLORERS . . . JUST ONE VICTORY SHY OF A TOURNAMENT

Bob Alden, George Friedrich and Hugh Brolly, join their soon-to-be vanquished St. Joseph's College opponents under the basket as one of Joey Heyer's patented jump shots settles through the nets. Heyer's shooting and the rebounding of this trio sparked La Salle's dramatic upset win over the Tournament-bound Hawks.

Pennsylvania, Temple and Villanova all took the measure of Dudey's Dribblers. The Temple loss—La Salle's only setback in the Middle Atlantic Conference—was the only obstacle in La Salle's path to a possible invitation to the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament. In M.A.C. competition, the Explorers decisioned Bucknell, Lehigh, Lafayette, Muhlenberg (twice) and St. Joseph's to finish in second place in the Conference with a 6-1 mark behind St. Joseph's 7-1 record. On foreign soil, the Blue and Gold invaded Madison Square Garden to wallop Manhattan and added other road victories over Duquesne, Morehead State, West Chester and Scranton. The Explorers only road loss came late in the year at Raleigh, No. Carolina where North Carolina State prevailed. Five of La Salle's six losses came at the Palestra. Besides the aforementioned local teams, Syracuse and Western Kentucky also defeated the Explorers on the "friendly home-away-from-home" floor. The finale against Villanova served as a swan song for five La Salle seniors. Bob Alden, Joe Heyer, Ralph Bantivoglio, Hugh Brolly, and Bella Kerecz wore the Blue and Gold for the last time. Alden, chosen to the all-Big Five team in March, dethroned Heyer as the team scoring leader, tallying 360 points for a 16.4 average. Heyer, who finished his career just shy of the 1,000 point mark, had 357 for a 16.2 average.

Bob Alden can't get much higher (legally in depositing this field goal against Western Kentucky. Alden's effort went to waste as the taller Hilltoppers handed La Salle its second loss of the campaign.

The closeness of the game is evinced by the scoreboard in Madison Square Garden as forward Hugh Brolly hits on a jump-shot to give La Salle a lead it never relinquished.

Ralph Bantivoglio, former Camden Catholic ace, was the playmaking half of La Salle's best backcourt combination in history. The slim, 5-11 guard led La Salle in assists for two consecutive seasons.

Joe Heyer, highest scoring guard in La Salle's history, and team leader for two seasons, finished his varsity career just short of the coveted 1000 point mark.

Bob Alden came into his own early in his senior year to fulfill the promise he showed in a brilliant high school and freshman career. The 6-6 center was honored by Philadelphia's basketball writers in January.

George Friedrich's futile battle for this rebound just about sums up La Salle's luck against Syracuse's Orangemen in their Palestra overtime thriller.

Explorer soph George Friedrich emerged from this pile-up with two points in La Salle's close win over Georgetown at the Palestra. Friedrich and Joe Carey, waiting for a possible rebound, were two of La Salle's more steady sophomores this season.

Baseball

La Salle's baseball team opened the season against Temple in April with high hopes of improving on last season's 9-8 record. Much of the optimism was based on the fact that coach Gene McDonnell was starting his second season at the helm of the Explorers with much returning talent, especially in pitching and in the infield. Promising sophomores guaranteed improvement at other junctures, also—primarily in the catching department. Heading the group of experienced veterans were pitchers Ed O'Mara, Joe Laurinatus, Frank Monahan and Tim Welsh. O'Mara, who won three of five decisions last season, led the team in hitting with a .400 average. Laurinatus and Monahan did not play in 1959, the former serving six months in the Army and the latter out with injuries. In the infield McDonnell could pick from such talent as Connie Newman (who also pitches and plays the outfield), Ed Rybacki, Bob Egizio, Joe Tropea, Rich Prendergast, Ed Barley, Chuck Dees and Matt Bowe. The entire starting infield has pushed the hopes of McDonnell sky-high since every one of its members were among the team's top hitters in 1959. Rybacki hit .365; Egizio, .328; Tropea, .304, and Newman, .286. Outfielders who saw action a year ago included Al Craig, Ed Gaucher and Joe Heyer. Sophomores who give the Explorers added depth included catchers Ralph McNally and George Ward pitchers Rich Dunn and John Fitzpatrick and outfielder Ray Snyder. The catching, according to McDonnell, was one of the most improved positions on the team because of the addition of McNally and Ward, both former standouts in sandlot and high school baseball. Overall, the diamond picture looked bright for the Explorers who were slated for heavy action in both the Philadelphia Big Five and the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Shortstop Bob Egizio slides home with La Salle's first run of the season in the opener against Temple. Don Flynn, who pitched the Owls to an eventual 5-4 victory, dropped the throw allowing Egizio, a senior, to score.

Second baseman Rich Prendergast slides into (that's right) first base with La Salle's initial hit of the season in the seventh inning of the Temple game. Prendergast, a defensive genius all season, was the Explorer sparkplug in 1960.

Long ones; short ones—all sizes and shapes tried out for varsity pitching positions on the baseball squad during pre-season workouts last March. Coach Gene McDonnell had no easy chore in making his final selections, either.

Tennis

Coach Art Condon and his 1960 Explorer Tennis Squad.

"A Winner in 1960!" was the fight chant of La Salle's tennis team as it took to the courts to open the season against St. Joseph's on April 8. Going into their 1960 debut against the arch-rival Hawks, the veterans who were around last year remembered only too well how the 1959 Explorers fell just short of a winning mark, finishing with a 5-6 seasonal slate. They vowed that matters would be different this year. Heading the returning netmen were captain Bill Kauffman, the only senior on the squad; Cliff Gillespie, Jerry Tiedeken and Ed Bachofer. Coach Art Condon also carried a sophomore, Tom Jurasinski, who added depth to the team throughout its 14-match schedule.

Cliff Gillespie goes up for a high one in practice at the Rifle Club before La Salle's opener against St. Joseph's.

Golf

La Salle's golf team, with three lettermen returning from last year's squad which won three of nine matches, embarked on the start of its hefty 14 match schedule against Albright on April 4. The Explorers used a pair of clubs as their "home" course, Cedarbrook and Philmont. Coach Robert Courtney planned to build his squad around a trio of senior lettermen, captain Frank Bodine, Jim Kelly and Ernie Susantin. With an eye on the future, the rest of La Salle's "Top Six" included three sophomores with promising talent, Jack Moran, Tom O'Brien and Bob Ryan. La Salle was scheduled to play all of the local colleges at least once in 1960 besides Albright and Rutgers, of South Jersey.

Swimming

Coach Joe Kirk's swimmers pulled the surprise of the year, athletically speaking at La Salle this season, by winning 11 of their 12 dual meets during the regular campaign and then finishing third in the Middle Atlantic Conference championships at Bucknell University. Pete Walheim, John Brolly and Tom Swartz were the three seniors on the team who sparked the Explorers to their best campaign in three years with some impressive performances. The greatest victory of the year came over powerful West Chester, for it ended the Teachers' 20-meet winning streak. La Salle had many other swimming heroes this season including Bob Machusick, Ted Hennings, Bob McKenna, Dolph Berkenberger and Neil McDonnell. Since they all will return next year, La Salle's swimming future looks bright.

In Memoriam

FRANCIS J. ERB
1939-1959

September 14th was a victorious day for Francis Erb, the first Explorer to conquer space and reach the "stars." Instead of employing rockets or space ships, Francis used the seemingly fragile links of a Rosary and the armor of Mary's scapular as his "Jacob's Ladder" to pierce the nebulous veil of the afterlife. His unflinching acceptance of suffering has left its imprint on the memory of the class of 1960.

As Father Driscoll pointed out Francis was a fine example of Christian education, "a courageous boy, whose love of God let him face death with a spirit that is seldom found in one so young."
